Culture of Honouring

A rare experiment in building community and empowerment of the individual. COH required a warm 'earthy' feel to project themselves in the right sector.

We were able to achieve this with great effect.

About Me
 After studying for a degree in Psychology and Religious Studies I spent a number of years bringing up my four children. My professional background reflects my interest in working with people experiencing difficulties in their lives including: working in a refuge for women and children escaping domestic violence; as a mediator for families in crisis; a community mentor for the elderly to prevent social isolation; and more recently in alcohol services. I trained at the Karuna Institute on Dartmoor and have been practising since 2005.

Magical Handcrafted Yurts

The Yurt (or Ger) home to the Nomads of Central Asia for over 1500 years, is without a doubt one of Asia's finest creations. Entering a Yurt is like entering a Temple of the Earth, its simplicity and sacred proportions immediately transport you to another time and place. The stillness, the beauty, the warmth and light all delight the body, mind and spirit. It is as if the majesty and beauty of Nomadic life is encoded into the very structure of the Yurts themselves.
